U.S. Foreign Policy
IN AN ERA OF GLOBALIZATION

Making U.S. Policy Unilaterally in a Multilateral World

Given competing international and national claims to legitimate use of power, how can U.S. policies be reconciled with its own interests and with the needs of the global community?

G. John Ikenberry is the Albert G. Milbank Professor of Politics and International Affairs at Princeton University. He is a renowned expert in the areas of U.S. foreign policy, international relations, and globalization.

The Center for the Study of Democratic Governance promotes the discussion of the role and importance of values in public life. The symposium is part of the Civic Leadership and Public Issues Initiative.