Are deception and “spin” in political campaigns threatening the very fabric of our electoral system and the idea of democracy? What is ethical behavior in a political campaign? Are candidates obligated to tell voters the truth or are they only obligated to refrain from intentionally misinforming them?